Information
on the use of cookies

01. We use cookies

We would like to inform you how we use cookies ("Cookies") on our website https://aktrinec.cz (the "Website").

02. What are they?

Cookies are small files that the Website stores on your computer or other device from which you visit the Website, unless you opt out as described below. On each visit, your browser will automatically send the information contained in the Cookies, as described in section 03 below, to the Website.

Such information from Cookies is anonymised.

03. Cookies we use and their purpose:

a/ Functional

These enable the Website to function properly and provide information about your Website settings; this means that your settings will be remembered on your next visit, so the Website will load faster and display will continue from where you left off.

We do not analyse this information.

Cookies necessary for the operation of the Website cannot be disabled, as otherwise the Website would not function properly.

b/ Analytical

These provide information about how you use the Website, namely where you access it from, how and for how long you use it, where you stay and which elements you skip.

We analyse this information and, where necessary, use it to adapt our Website and communication channels.

Analytical Cookies can be blocked.

We do not use any other cookies.

04. Consent / objection:

The Website cannot function properly without active cookies, so your consent to their use is not required.

However, your consent is required for the use of analytical cookies.

When you first visit the Website (or on your next visit after deleting Cookies from your device), a Cookie settings window will appear; as functional Cookies are used automatically, you only decide whether to allow or block analytical Cookies.

You may consent to the use of analytical Cookies by selecting "Allow".

If you do not want analytical Cookies to be used, you may select "Block".

Even if you have consented to the use of analytical Cookies, you can delete them from your device at any time; the same also applies to functional Cookies.

05. Cookies as personal data

Although information from Cookies is anonymised, it is considered personal data. We therefore process it not only in accordance with the rules set out in this notice, but also in accordance with the rules for processing personal data; information on this subject can be found on the website here.